VINIFICATION PROCESS / MATURATION

The late harvest of selected grapes, affected by noble rot, took place in mid-October. The bunches were destemmed and gently crushed, followed by a cold maceration lasting five days. After pressing, the must remained at low temperature for an additional 24 hours. It was then statically decanted and transferred to used French oak barrels, where it slowly fermented throughout the winter, developing its full complexity and elegance.

BOTTLING

Carried out in inert atmosphere with total deoxygenating of bottles.
